DODGING DUCK CELTIC FEST CELEBRATES IRISH GUESTS

BOERNE, TX – February 10, 2013. Boerne Performing Arts has celebrated two SOLD OUT performances so far in their 2013 season...with the final concert rapidly approaching. Direct from Ireland, Celtic Nights is a troupe of professional singers, dancers and musicians who will arrive in Boerne, Texas, on Wednesday, February 20, in preparation for their performance Saturday, February 23, at 7:30pm at Boerne Champion High School Auditorium.

Many local businesses are preparing to extend their Hill Country Hospitality to the visiting Irish folks, including local hotels and several restaurants. Boerne Performing Arts has partnered with The Dodging Duck in a special promotion for this event, which includes a weekend-long Celtic Celebration at “The Duck”. Owner Keith Moore has been brewing some special concoctions, including an Irish Red Ale and an Irish Stout. “We have brewed these special beers to create a fun atmosphere for everyone in Boerne to relax and enjoy the Celtic spirit. Our ‘duck’ has never been recognized for his dancing abilities, but stop by and catch a glimpse of his new pose!” encourages Moore.

Special Irish Ales have been brewing at The Dodging Duck in anticipation of their Celtic Fest Weekend February 22-23. Highlighting the weekend will be the performance by Celtic Nights, an evening of Music, Song & Dance, and everyone is invited to “Dance Your Way to the Duck” for a fun-filled weekend! Pictured above with promotional glasses for the event are (front row L-R): Dan Rogers (Kendall County EDC), Keith Moore (Owner of The Dodging Duck), Melissa Milton (Kendall County EDC). Standing behind them (L-R) are that staff that will be on hand to serve up a good time: Marina Perez, Karen Sarli, Chandra Bulk, and Rose Bulk.

Customers at The Dodging Duck have been served on “Dancing Duck” coasters, and even served beverages in a “Dancing Duck” glass. The special limited edition glasses are being offered as a free souvenir to anyone who has purchased a ticket to the Celtic Nights performance. A limited number of glasses are also available for purchase to people dining at this well-known river front establishment.

“The community partnerships that have been developed by Boerne Performing Arts and local businesses is a compliment to our town,” explains Dan Rogers of the Kendall County Economic Development Corporation. “The quality of life is essential when we are promoting Boerne to future businesses, and being able to highlight our outstanding performing arts offerings strengthened by the local business involvement in these community events only helps us to sell the great town we live in!”

A limited number of tickets, priced at $30-$40-$50, remain for Celtic Nights on Saturday, February 23, at 7:30pm at Boerne Champion High School Auditorium, and are available at: Greater Boerne Chamber of Commerce, Boerne Convention & Visitors Bureau, by phone at 830-331-9079, or online at www.boerneperformingarts.com. But, there is plenty of space to enjoy the special Celtic Fest, all weekend long!
